

RE: National Do-Not-Call Registry

What provision has been made to purge recycled phone numbers?

A consumer puts their phone number on the DNC list, but when that number is subsequently re-assigned to someone else, it remains on the list for seven years, regardless of the wishes of the consumer to whom it is currently assigned.

Involuntary inclusion of vast quantities of phone numbers on the Do Not Call list raises a number of legal questions as well as issues regarding restraint of trade.
